NOTED FLIER UNREPORTED IN BAD STORM

Sir Kingsford-Smith and Companion are Feared Lost

Singapore, Straits Settlements, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Darkness fell over the Malay Strait tonight without any further word from Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, missing on a flight from England to Australia.

The noted Australian pilot and his co-pilot, Tom Pethybridge, were last sighted by C. James Melrose, who reported that he had flown over the missing fliers' plane over the Bay of Bengal in a raging monsoon.

Melrose, a prize winner in the London-Melbourne air derby last year, announced that he was abandoning his own flight from England to Australia to assist Royal Air Force pilots in a search to-morrow for the missing men.

Ships in the Bay of Bengal were warned by wireless to keep a sharp lookout for Kingsford-Smith.

Aviation experts expressed fear for the safety of the famous trans-oceanic flier, who began his latest flight Wednesday from Lymington, England.

SIX SAFE IN ALASKA

Fairbanks, Alaska, Nov. 8.—(AP)—A joyous welcome was arranged for Pilot Jack Herman and his five airplane passengers at Dawson, Y. T. today.

The six men, missing since they took off from Dawson last Saturday for Fairbanks, were reported safe at Cassiar Roadhouse, 35 miles from the city.

Pilot Bob Randall, who flashed word he had found Herman's party and plane on an island in the Yukon river yesterday, and Pilots Vic Ross, William Lavery and Herman Lerdahl were ready to fly from Dawson to Cassiar to determine whether the men would be returned by air. If not, the group will have to make the trip by dog team.

Automobile Lights Are Being Checked by Highway Police

State Highway Police are conducting a drive against the improper lighting of automobiles on highways in the vicinity of Dixon. For the past three nights, the officers have been stationed at the Prairieville corner where an inspection is being conducted of all cars passing the zone which has been established, requiring all cars to stop. It was estimated today that approximately 200 cars had defective head lights and 100 had no tail lights. In each instance the drivers are required to make the required changes on the scene of inspection. "One-eyed" cars were said to head the list of offenders. The campaign is state wide.

Norris Declines to Seek Senatorship

Salt Lake City, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Senator George W. Norris, veteran Nebraska Republican, told the Desert News here today he will not be a candidate for re-election to the senate.

"I have been in the senate for many years," he said during a brief stop here en route to Compton, Calif., to visit a daughter. "I am getting old, and younger men can and should carry on the work which I have tried to do during my years as a senator. I am not a candidate."

"But a campaign would be a small disturbance compared to the trouble my not being a candidate has cost me. I have received hundreds of letters from all parts of the United States urging me to run next year."

Mother of Dixon Scout Executive Injured in a Fall

Mrs. Ida M. Boltz, Byron, who fell off the porch of her home and lay an hour and a half in freezing temperature unable to aid herself before she was discovered by neighbors, was reported resting easily in the Katherine Shaw Bethel hospital this morning.

Mrs. Boltz is the mother of Harold G. Boltz, Lee and Oak county Boy Scout executive here. The accident occurred Monday. She suffered a severe sprain and slight dislocation of her knee cap. She also suffered considerably from exposure and fears for her condition were felt until this morning.

SHOWER FOR PIGS

Kinston, N. C., Nov. 8.—(AP)—"Pigs is pigs, maybe," observed Farmer Julian Brown today, "but mine ain't." His pigs, Brown said, "regard cleanliness next to Godliness." ### ON STRANGE QUEST

Washington, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Maury Madison came to the Capital today on a strange quest—he's looking for someone who knew Mrs. Abraham Lincoln.

Madison, a native of Bourbon county, Kentucky, whose hobby is gathering historical material about presidents' wives has prepared a pictorial book entitled "Lincoln's Kentucky Mary."

Now he wants "some one who actually knew her to write a brief foreword for it." There must be some such person living, he said, but so far his quest has been in vain.

DOG SHOWED SENSE

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Rather apologetically, he limped into the receiving room of the general hospital last Tuesday. Mrs. Ruth Michaelson, nurse in charge, saw him but hurried about her duties. Wednesday he was back in the receiving room.

Thursday he again appeared, the limp more pronounced and with a pleading look. Dr. J. Cash King noticed him hobbling about and took him to the x-ray room.

"Just as I thought," he muttered, "a clean fracture."

Today, his leg in splints, he is the pet of the hospital.

"He's just a mongrel dog," said Mrs. Michaelson, "but he had more sense than we did."

Judge Manus Reverses County Court in Two Decisions Concerning Kate Steward Estate

Judge Albert H. Manus of Freeport, presiding in the Lee county circuit court yesterday afternoon, overruled the Lee county probate court on two decisions in the Kate B. Steward estate, which had been appealed from the probate to the circuit court by Attorney Clyde Smith, counsel for Martin D. Barnett, of Pochelle, administrator for the will annexed. Judge Manus also ruled that Administrator Barnett was not personally liable to the estate for the sum of $488.60 representing two checks collected for the leases on lands and drawn upon the National bank of Steward, now closed.

The court held that Barnett acted as agent and not as trustee of the estate in making certain collections and affecting leases of

UTILITIES BILL SEEN AS ISSUE IN '36 CAMPAIGN

Administration May Attempt to Evade U. S. Judge's Decision

Washington, Nov. 8.—(AP)—A new and immense struggle over the utility holding company bill is believed to be an imminent probability, especially in view of a Baltimore Federal judge's decision that the whole act is unconstitutional.

Some officials of the Securities Commission are known to believe that the Baltimore result will stiffen the resistance of the utilities industry, and that most of the holding firms will refuse to register with the commission at the deadline, Dec. 1.

If this should be the case, practically the whole vast industry would be arrayed in determined resistance against the act which grew out of the Roosevelt administration's attempt to "simplify" the holding company setup, to eliminate holding firms deemed "unnecessary" and to regulate the remainder.

Halted at Very Start
Unless the Securities Commission could win the court fight, its attempt to enforce the act would be halted at the very start. The registration procedure calls for the filing of detailed information about the concerns' financial and operating structure.

These data are to be used by the commission in deciding which companies should be eliminated, a question which, in general, hinges on whether a concern holds sway over a territory considered too wide.

There was little doubt today among observers here that the government would fight if faced with a wholesale refusal to register. It was recalled that, in the memorable controversy over the measure at the last session of Congress, the administration forces kept pressing for its enactment as a measure necessary to reform evils, while the utilities fought it vehemently as unconstitutional and a threat to investors.

Some Changes Made
As a result of the bitter fight, some changes were made in the bill before it could be passed, but its opponents still were severely critical of it.

The act provides fines and jail sentences for those who refuse to register. If the Securities Commission should move to enforce these provisions, the result would be a test case in which the government would be an active party.

Such was not the case in the Baltimore controversy, which resulted yesterday in Federal Judge William C. Coleman's ruling that the law was "grossly arbitrary, unreasonable and capricious." That litigation was between private parties interested in a holding company.

The Securities Commission has taken the position that it would not be bound by a decision of unconstitutionality in the Baltimore case, and might act against individual concerns which fail to register.

The opinion was expressed by one official that a struggle over registration would precipitate the whole holding company issue into the 1936 campaign.

GETTING OUT OF INSULL'S SELECT LIST EXPENSIVE

"Insiders" Must Pay in Full for Stock He Let Them In On

Chicago, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The "insiders" on Samuel Insull's second "preferred list" are finding he did them an expensive favor.

Nearly 100 of them, let in on a $30,000,000 stock syndicate in 1930, have had to pay $214,094.45 to get out. Court authority has been granted for lawsuits against others.

This is disclosed in several pounds of court orders and petitions concerning Insull, Son & Company, on file with the referee in bankruptcy. The concern managed the syndicate.

The "preferred list" was an invitation affair. Insull, then chief of the huge Insull utility system, had held one such financial party earlier, serving out profits of 25 per cent much as another host would serve slices of cake.

Many Included
The guests in the second syndicate included some of Illinois' most prominent politicians, two opera stars, and a baker's dozen of Insull's favorite lieutenants.

All they had to do was to put in 5 per cent of their total subscription. Then they were to share in the profits of a deal in the stock and stock rights of Insull Utility Investments, Inc. But the deal went awry.

Now many of those who haven't paid up are being sued for their pro rata share of the syndicate's loss—$3,671,811.

Want $7,629 From Igoe
Michael L. Igoe, district attorney in Chicago, faces suit, according to the referee's documents, for $7,629.91 from P. A. Nash, national Democratic committeeman from Illinois and Cook county Democratic chairman, the trustee in bankruptcy wants $3,051.96.

Frank L. Smith, Republican national committeeman, was another of the politicians invited to come in, and the attorneys want $15,259.96, in a circuit court suit, to let him out.

Some of the "preferred list" losers have paid in full. E. J. Schackenberg, minority leader of the Illinois House of Representatives, is one. His ride in the Insull flyer cost $3,814.96, the files show.

Edward J. Hughes, secretary of state in Illinois, is shown as having a liability of $3,814.96. Former Congressman Allen F. Moore, Monticello, Ill., was also on the list.

Amboy Boy Has Risen to High Position in Coal Industry of the Nation

George W. Reed Had No Such Ideas in Lee County Town

Washington, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Thirty-two years as a coal salesman, during which time he has become vice-president of the Peabody Coal Company, has convinced Geo. W. Reed that regulation of the coal industry is imperative if the industry is to survive.

With that conviction, which, he says, he has held for the last ten years, he has participated in nearly every effort during recent years to put the industry on a better footing.

His latest task is that of serving as chairman of the district board which will administer the bituminous coal conservation act in Illinois.

When elected to the position by the Illinois producers Reed was in Washington, having come here to volunteer his services to the government in its defense to attacks on the constitutionality of the conservation act, commonly known as the Guffey act.

Doesn't Look Part
Grouped in the courtroom with a score or more coal magnates, Reed doesn't look the part of a typical industrialist. He is not a big man physically. He is soft-spoken, deliberate in movement and says he is "just as old as I look—57."

His associates say he has little need for the voluminous mass of statistics on the coal industry which he carries in his brief case.

"He can recite them all," one of them said, "without looking at the schedules. He's probably the best authority in the country on coal sales."

Reed reached the vice presidency of the Peabody Company through the salesmanship route. Unlike many of his associates, his part of the work has been confined entirely to the sales end. Production, mine engineering and the other phases of the industry which have furnished many of its leaders are not in Reed's line.

Not Amboy Schools
In fact, he never intended to be a coal man at all. When he finished school at the small Lee county, Illinois, town of Amboy he expected to be a railroad. And it was a railroad that he started his career.

He first got a job with the Illinois Central at Freeport, where, he says, he was a stenographer for the local freight agent. That was in 1894. Later he was transferred to the railroad's Chicago office where he spent several years in the coal traffic department—and his career as a coal man began.

Left Railroad
In 1903 he left the railroad to sell coal for the Springfield-Lincoln Coal Company. He remained with that company until 1916 when the ability to sell coal attracted the attention of the late F. S. Peabody.

Peabody, in 1917, brought him to Washington to serve as secretary of the committee on coal production—the organization which drafted the zone plan for the movement in war time.

When the war ended Reed returned to Illinois and became sales manager of the Peabody Coal Company, the state's largest producer.

A short time later he became vice-president in charge of sales, a position he has held since.

In the boom years which followed the war Reed sold a lot of coal, he said. But the decline in Illinois production which followed, a decline caused by the state's inability to meet "prices made by competing districts," set him to thinking.

Saw Production Drop
In the ten year period following 1923 he witnessed Illinois production drop from 78 to 35 million tons. He saw an industry which once gave employment to more than 90,000 Illinois miners slump until jobs were available for a scant 30,000. He saw towns and villages throughout the state, dependent on the local coal mines for existence, become "ghost towns."

The resulting idleness for more

CONVICTS TO BE KEPT EMPLOYED

Stateville Warden is Planning New Life in the Prison

Joliet, Ill., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Warden Joseph Ragan today started a daily program of military drills and setting-up exercises for the 2,500 idle convicts at the Stateville prison with the announced purpose of keeping them too busy to get into trouble.

There are few idle men at the old prison, but if the number should grow the same system will go into effect there, he said.

The drills and exercises are "stop-gaps" while the warden is completing a program of work aimed to give every inmate eight hours of employment daily by substituting hand labor for machines now in use and by making improvements in the prison grounds.

The plan followed two stabbings last week, one fatal to William Neill, 36-year-old convicted murderer of Joliet, and another which left Lawrence Marano, Chicago, convict, in serious condition at the Stateville prison hospital.

To Use Hand Labor.
Use of hand labor for machines, Ragan predicted, not only would create more work hours but would save the taxpayers the upkeep of expensive machinery. In the textile work, he said, the use of hand looms would provide work for 400 more men and employment in the envelope factory could be doubled.

A coroner's jury which held a session yesterday at Stateville to investigate Neill's death moved to the old prison today to continue the quiz. An unnamed convict at Stateville, where the fatal stabbing occurred, yesterday identified Frank Pluerzi, 21-year-old convicted murderer of Chicago, as one of four men he saw attack Neill.

Denver, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Formal charges of impeachment against James H. Carr, Democratic Secretary of State, were drafted today by a committee from the Colorado house of representatives which last night shattered state precedent to impeach the 35-year-old official.

Death Rate for Infants at Record Low

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 8.—(AP)—The odds that a baby will live today were the best ever recorded in Illinois.

The death rate for infants fell to a record low of 47 per 1,000 births for the first nine months of the year.

The most favorable previous "odds" were 56 deaths out of 1,000 births in 1932.

The birth rate, 13.7 per 1,000 population, was the highest since 1932. Births totaled 81,608 for the first nine months, 1972 ahead of last year.

DO NOT COME UNDER REGULATION WPA

Projects Had Included Dixon as City for Guard Armory

A works progress administration project calling for erection of 26 armories in Chicago and a score of downstate cities, including Dixon, had been virtually abandoned today, Robert J. Dunham, state administrator, said in Chicago today.

Agreeing with the sponsor, the Illinois Armory Board, of which Cpt. Sherwood Dixon is a member, that the buildings were needed, he said "unfortunately, they do not come within the purview of WPA."

"It is our duty to furnish employment to those on the relief rolls, with 90 per cent of our labor taken from that source," Ralph Burke, Dunham's assistant, explained. "In the case of these armories, the work would be done mainly by skilled workers unavailable from relief rolls, and the material cost is higher than on other projects."

Fall Under WPA

Reconsideration would be given the projects, Burke said, if the armory board would assure WPA of sufficient funds to employ the necessary skilled labor and to guarantee the armories would be completed if and when the WPA was forced to withdraw.

Under Washington advice, WPA officials have said they must close out all projects before June 30, 1936, at the latest and by March 15, if possible.

Burke also said the armory projects "should fall under PWA, rather than WPA."

In addition to armories in Chicago and Dixon, the program had called for their construction in Rockford, Waukegan, Sycamore, Mount Morris, Sreator, Sterling, Joliet, Elgin, Springfield, Pontiac, Urbana, Champaign, Mount Vernon, Peoria, Paris, Sullivan, Lawrenceville, Delavan, Carbondale, Salem and Yorkville.

Herrman, Michael Sullivan and Morris Cook, the former members of the commission. The new appointees drew for length of terms, John Yetter serving for one year, Carl Ewald for two years and Stoddard Danekas for the three year term. The new commissioners were sworn in and their first official act was to select Attorney E. E. Wingert of this city to represent the district.

His failure to fulfill the agreement resulted in the issuance of a bench warrant yesterday and his arrest today. He was committed to the county jail and to pay court costs amounting to $30.10.

Many Say The New Mixture of Extracts From Nature's Plants, Called Indo-Vin Was a "Blessing" To Their Health.

The suffering public has long needed a medicine that will bring more than just temporary relief. Many local people who took a short course of the Indo-Vin treatment as long as a YEAR AGO say they got such lasting benefits that they have NEVER needed medicine since. Report after report is being received from former sufferers and a few of their actual statements appear in this announcement. Dixon druggists and the general public have been astounded at the work of Indo-Vin, which is a new, scientific compound of medicinal plants, and is being introduced at the Ford-Hopkins Drug Store, here in this city. Prominent people say that nothing like it has ever been seen here before.

Why It Works So Completely

Indo-Vin is not a "patent" medicine but a new, improved system-cleanser, containing a combination of Natural plant extracts found in no other formula. It is taken after meals and mixes with the food in one's stomach, helping Nature throw off poisons that foster stomach troubles and permitting the kidneys and liver to do their work properly.

It acts within 10 minutes to stop acid risings, bloating and belching; it will work on those gases and impurities (frequently from the first dose) which may have been inside you for a long time. Thus Indo-Vin gives actual relief from headaches, dizzy spells, bladder irritation and weakness, spots before the eyes, swelling of ankles and rheumatic pain. It will help remove the poisons that have caused you many days of misery and benefit the system in general.

Following are JUST TWO testimonials from among the HUNDREDS that are being received from this vicinity, praising Indo-Vin, describing its action and urging ALL WHO SUFFER to get it and take it. Read these statements:

Stomach Agency
Gone 6 Months!

Mrs. D. H. ALEXANDER, of 818 N. Randolph, Champaign, Ill., says: "It's been over six months since I took Indo-Vin, and I feel like a new man."

Now Being Introduced to large crowds daily here in Dixon, at the Ford-Hopkins Drug Store, and sold by all leading druggists in the neighborhood throughout this whole

Since I took Indo-Vin, and that awful stomach trouble has never come back on me in all that time. Everything that I ate would disagree with me, but it seemed like the acid foods were worse than anything else, and another thing was that my meals didn't seem to do me any good at all. ALEXANDER and wouldn't nourish my system like they should and as a result I kept losing my energy and finally got to where I was weak and worn-out ALL THE TIME. I tried medicine after medicine and none of them ever reached my trouble at all, but finally I found Indo-Vin and it proved to be what I HAD ALWAYS NEEDED. I can even eat the acid foods now and they agree with me, in fact, I can eat anything and my meals are nourishing my system and doing me so much good that I have ten times the energy I had before. This medicine is a wonder, and I gladly endorse it."

Relieved Back Pains
Within Months Ago!

MRS. IDA M. DOSSETT, Box No. 94, Victoria, Ill., (near Galesburg) says: "It has been over six months since I got rid of kidney trouble. I have never returned since I took Indo-Vin that long ago. I used to suffer with misery in my back and would feel so stiff and sore I could hardly walk. My kidneys kept getting me up at all hours of the night, too, which broke up my sleep and rest. Indo-Vin seemed to be the only medicine that did me any good. It quickly drove out the backache and pains and I never have to get up at night any more to relieve my kidneys. It has been over six months since I got free from this trouble."

Not Expensive

Indo-Vin was unknown less than two years ago, but the demand for it has increased so rapidly that today CARLOADS are being shipped to many communities. Such large volume permits this high-quality medicine to be sold at lower prices than many ordinary medicines. It costs only a FEW CENTS A DAY to take Indo-Vin, so if you are run-down, have tired, sleepy feelings, or headache, sick and bilious, you certainly owe it to yourself to give this new, advanced medicine a trial.

than 60,000 coal miners, he says, was the largest single cause of the mine wars which have disturbed central and southern Illinois for a number of years.

All these things, Reed said, "set me to thinking."

So his participation in various efforts to better the status of the coal industry came about.

When the NRA code for the bituminous coal industry was put into effect Reed was selected as divisional chairman for Illinois, Indiana and Iowa. He also served as chairman of the Illinois sub-division. With the end of the code, resulting from the Supreme Court's finding that NRA was unconstitutional, Reed, together with other operators, began a study of what legislation might be enacted to benefit the coal industry.

This committee wrote its ideas into the Guffey bill which created the national bituminous coal conservation act—an act Reed will now administer in Illinois.

"My hope, and the reason I have worked for its adoption, is that the Guffey act will enable Illinois to hold the tonnage it now has," Reed said. "It should enable us to pay the miners a living wage and make a small return for the stockholders."

Reed lives in Beverly Hills, Chicago, with his wife and two children, a boy, 14, and a girl, 10.

When not "selling coal" or engaged in conferences on coal industry, he says he plays a "little golf" or goes to horse races.

Of the 20,000,000 people on relief in the United States, approximately 13,000,000 are women and children, according to statistics.

GROWING OLD

By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

"I seventeen—going on eighteen", said a boy when asked his age. Youth does not think about age or the swift passing of time. It glories in growing older, and resents the slow-moving days.

But sooner or later a day comes when growing older begins to be more a dread than a delight. Then, a little later, we begin to say that when we do grow old we are going to grow old gracefully.

Still it seems far off, not near by, and that fact makes us miss the art of growing old. If we are going to grow old gracefully we must begin now, because we are growing older, whether we will or no.

How easy it is to grow old grudgingly—to let down, give up, become irritable, depressed, fearful, lonely, sour, letting faith in God, in our fellows, and in life itself, fall to a low ebb of apathy.

To grow old wisely we must accept the fact as normal, bow to the changes it brings, and not fret. If we work with it, not against it, we may actually ward off old age in fact as well as in spirit.

The saddest fate of all is to grow old, and not grow—just dry up, go to seed, and become petty and hard. A wise poet prayed to avoid a "set, gray apathetic end," which is death before death is due.

To fight old age, to rebel against it, is to grow old quickly. But if we grow the graces of each stage of life, in its time and after its kind, the sense of growing old will be lost in its rewards.

Life is a count of lessons, every year; but it can also be a count of gains to make up for it. Our passing years ought to give us insight, and they will if we keep an alert mind and a warm heart.

At eighty-five Whittier wrote his last poem, in honor of the birthday of his friend Oliver Holmes, in which he said: "Yet on our autumn boughs, unflown with spring, the evening thrushes sing."

Happy the man who in the falling daylight keeps a bird singing in his heart. After all, the sunset is only the light of dawn made mellow with memories, and touched with a prophetic glow and glory!

Start Handkerchief Chain Letter Now

They start many things out in California and in Peoria, Ill., too—and the latest item brought to our attention is the handkerchief chain letter—which frankly states it was started by those who did not receive, fair return for sundry dollars, dimes, etc. sent in chain letters during the summer, and this chain letter states that it is "dry and sniffling." Well, the world is full of a number of things, including chain letters of sorts. A Dixon lady received one started in California, and sent to her from Peoria.

The audience laughed. Mr. Bernie laughed. Still the new Mrs.

"WAR OF THE REBELLION"

Back in the unpleasantness of the 1860's the southern states that seceded were regarded in a state of rebellion against the United States government. Confederate soldiers were called Rebels. Warfare within a nation commonly is referred to as civil warfare, and this conflict became known in a widespread way as the Civil war. The expression is short, is easy to say, and it came to mean a particular civil war.

Nevertheless there is a particularly descriptive quality in the term, War of the Rebellion. There are occasions when we prefer that term over all others, because it was a war over rebellion against the constituted authorities of the United States of America.

In fact that term is so aptly descriptive that it is reported to be distasteful to the people of the states that rebelled, seceded, and undertook to set up a government of their own to be known as the Confederate States of America. We do not know of any other reason it could be objectionable.

During recent years a notable effort has been made to cause general adoption of the term, War Between the States. We do not have at hand the reasons why that is more desirable than other terms, but it is of southern origin and is promoted by those persons and organizations that are devoted to setting up the southern cause and putting Jeff Davis and General Lee up as patriots along with Abraham Lincoln and General Grant. Probably the term, War Between the States, leaves the inference that the United States government was not to be regarded as anything but an accidental set of states that happened to be at war with other states.

We note, however, that the government printing office has just completed 128 volumes entitled, Official Records of the War of the Rebellion. Inasmuch as there are 10,000 copies of these, we may regard the term, War of the Rebellion, as official. Compilation and printing of these "official records" began seventy-one years ago, and it is barely possible that those folks back there knew whether or not it was rebellion.

All of us are ready and willing to do all that is reasonable to heal the wounds of that war. The south took terrible punishment both under guns and under political carpetbaggers. We readily may admit that they fought nobly for what they wanted within the government and equally nobly for a cause that turned out to be a lost cause when they sought to withdraw and set up their own government. We readily may admit that General Lee was a great leader and just "skip it" if they want to insist that he was a greater general than Grant. World history has taken fairly good care of the reputation of Grant. We may give them back their flags and let them deposit them where sentiment dictates.

In publishing 10,000 sets of 178 volumes of "The Official Records of the War of the Rebellion," however, the United States government has placed its official stamp on that designation of that war, and does not call it the War Between the States.

REMEMBER THE LUSITANIA

Salvage operators working off the coast of Ireland believe they have located the sunken remains of the liner Lusitania where she was torpedoed by a German submarine twenty years ago. It is reported that the wreck discovered is in all probability that of the ship, and it is planned to remove 5 million dollars worth of gold which the ship carried.

A thorough examination of the vessel, if possible, may answer a few questions as to Germany's culpability. Germans defended their government by saying the ship carried not only innocent passengers but munitions as well. If the ship were laden with munitions, as the Germans charged, the rules of warfare made the ship a fair prize for any roving German submarine. If the ship carried no munitions, its sinking was only another example of that remarkable and characteristic lack of fundamental decency which the German government exhibited in many other dealings.

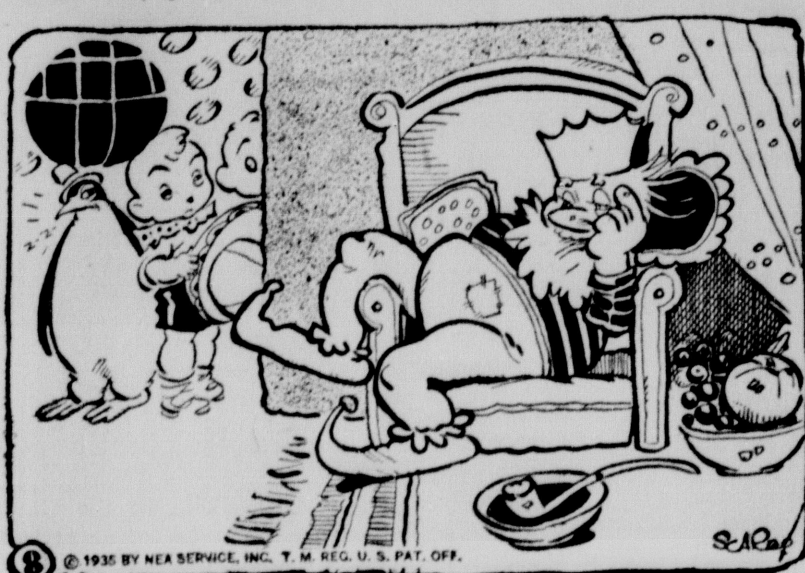

More than 1000 lives were lost in the tragedy. Our concern, as Americans, was with the Americans on board, but these had been warned by an advertisement published in this country by German officials. The warning stated plainly that the ship was in danger.

As a matter of fact the world knows today, and the kaiser himself knows, that it would have been better for Germany to have permitted the ship to pass unmolested. A peculiar situation existed at the time. The United States was protesting to both Germany and England over interference with American shipping and American rights on the high seas. If the Germans had abandoned their policy of frightfulness against Americans, and if the British had kept up their interference, who knows what the result would have been? We might not, indeed, have gone to war against Britain, but at the same time we might have remained neutral. Under such a situation, Germany would have had an excellent chance to win the war.

My chief indictment of the administration's agricultural program, with the possible exception of the Farm Credit Administration, is that it entirely ignores the brains and ability of the average farmer.—Frank E. Gannett, New York publisher.

What has become of representative government in these United States when the president can say: "Only on this kind of bill will I let Congress vote"? I'd rather die and go to hell than submit to such high-handed tyranny.—Senator Long.

THE TIMYMITES

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

"Oh, Sleepy Head, we're rather dumb. We're sorry that we had to come and rouse you out of Slumberland," said Goldy, with a smile.

"You see, we're little Timymites, who travel round to see the sights. That's why we dropped in here. We'll only stay a little while."

"We're curious about this land, and we feel that it would be grand, if you would show us 'round a bit. Then you can go to bed."

"Is anybody here but you? If so, please tell us what they do." "Oh, I can tell you lots of things," the little fellow said.

"Now, first of all, please walk right in, and at the start I will begin." The Timymites scampered through the gate and squatted on the ground.

"Now, tell us everything, and we will be as quiet as can be," said Goldy. "Then, when you are through, we'll start to look around."

"Well, all you tots have heard about the old Sandman, without a doubt. He is the man who shows wee folks the way to Slumberland. 'Soon you will get a big surprise when, right before your very eyes, the Sandman will appear.' Fair Dotty shouted, 'Oh, how grand.'"

The lad continued, "That fine gent, his whole life on this land has spent. Each night, though, he floats 'round the world to make wee tots' eyes close."

"Right now, I'm sure he's all alone. Come on, we'll walk up to his throne. He is a very friendly man. You'll like him, goodness knows."

They reached the throne and Goldy ran right up and said, "Hello, Sandman!" The old man answered, "Howdy do," his face spread in a smile.

"I'm glad you came to visit me. You all need rest, I plainly see, but first of all, sit on that log. We'll visit for a while."

WOOL ON THE HOOF

THIS is the type of wool coat they grow down south, and it's a prize-winner, too—as the elaborate ribbons will prove. The ram which so proudly wears it is a Romney Marsh from Magallanes, the southernmost tip of South America, photographed by a traveler taking one of the weekly cruises to Chile.

Down around the Straits of Magellan are cold lands which bear grass the year 'round—with rains and light snowfall keeping them, through all seasons, fresh and free from dust—a region particularly favorable for sheep-raising. The flocks which graze there grow exceptionally heavy fleeces of very fine quality and practically free from dust and dirt. This region supports about 4,000,000 heads—about one-quarter of which are sent to the packing plants, the rest raised for their wool, of which they produce annually about 20,000,000 pounds.

Some of the ranches, or estancias, as they are called, cover more than 1,500,000 acres with thousands of heads of sheep—roaming the ranges in charge of the shepherds and sheepdogs and growing wool which finds its way to the far corners of the globe.

A. Anderson and J. U. Lanning.

The main building will be constructed from a bequest left by the late Minnie Luxton, whose will provided a fund of $5,000 be set aside for the erection of a suitable chapel at Lawndale.

The plans for the structure were prepared by Architect Morgan Hamaker. The edifice promises to be one of great beauty and to fill a definite need in this well maintained and beautiful cemetery.

At Memorial Park, Commissioner Russell A. Hamaker, is making definite headway with some much needed improvements. He has completed arrangements for the construction of a brick comfort station on the grounds and also for an underground settling tank for industrial sewage. The settling tank will be sunk about six feet beneath the surface of the ground, and will be the last word in modern sanitary equipment.

The city of Rochelle has workmen engaged in trimming the young trees on the parking of residential sections of the city.

The city council has passed an ordinance in regard to temporary or permanent observance of "No Parking" signs the violation of the ordinance calling for a fine of not less than one dollar nor more than one hundred dollars for each offense.

Members of the Mae Cratty Relief Corps will hold a regular meeting at the Woodman Hall this evening.

Cards will be played, following the business session, and refreshments will be served. The members' husbands are cordially invited to attend.

There were 28 births and 16 deaths recorded in Ogle county in September according to figures just released of which there were five births and five deaths in Rochelle. ## Uncle Sam to Cut Up $755,849,177 of Paper Money

Washington, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The government machines that chop paper money up into little bits soon will have one of their biggest jobs to do.

The reason is that the treasury is planning to put out a dollar bill of new design. So the old bills, to a total of $755,849,177, will be fed in the machines as fast as they come in.

The machines not only chop them, but pound them into pulp, so they can be made into new bills.

Fannie Hurst Tried to Fool Her Friend Will Rogers but Laugh Was On Her

Will Rogers was as amusing abroad as he was at home.

Fannie Hurst, famous author recalls her meetings with the humorist.

"My acquaintanceship with the late Will Rogers was all too transient, but two incidents stand out with clarity in my mind.

"One evening several years ago in Rome, I was seated in a cat-comic restaurant having dinner. Presently a waiter appeared and deposited at my side a handsome bottle of champagne. A note accompanied it from Mr. Rogers, who was seated at the opposite side of the cafe. After I had read it, I looked up to find his roguish eyes regarding me from across the room. The note read: 'Dear Fannie: Drinking to you only with my eyes doesn't work.' That was my first meeting with Mr. Rogers.

"About a year later, I received an invitation to attend a lecture by Mr. Rogers to be delivered at Carnegie Hall. Enclosed were seven or eight box seats. I assembled a party of friends, and we attended. "After about fifteen minutes of delightful rambling, Mr. Rogers abruptly announced that he was going to introduce to the audience some of his members. What the formidable Rogers had done, was to people the boxes with those who would give him material for his good humored sallies.

"He began to work his way around the horseshoe, beginning, as I remember, with Minnie Madson Fiske on to Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., until he approached my party.

"In my group, there happened to be a beautiful young girl. When he called out my name in introduction, I pushed the bewildered young thing to her feet to take a bow for the applause that followed. 'Well Fannie,' was his delightful comment, 'I like your Benda mask.'

"He crossed my path with met-teoric incidents, all of them swift, transitory, but unforgettable."

Millions now have an opportunity to contribute to the memory of Will Rogers. Famous friends have organized The Will Rogers Memorial Commission. It is hoped everyone who smiled with Rogers will come forward with a subscription. Take it or send it to your bank—or any bank—or use the accompanying coupon to send your subscription to this office. Every cent subscribed will be used for memorials to be selected by Henry Ford, Herbert Hoover, Alfred E. Smith, Will H. Hays, Jesse H. Jones, Owen D. Young, Vice President John N. Garner and other men and women of national prestige and respect. The memorials will depend on the number of friends who contribute—but they will be used for charitable, educational and humanitarian purposes. There will be no cold shaft of marble to honor the memory of this warm, friendly man. They will be living, continuing memorials.

DIES TWO DAYS AFTER ELECTION TO PENN OFFICE

Pittsburgh, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Allegheny county commissioner-elect James F. Malone, died Thursday.

The 57-year-old former Pittsburgh city councilman and the only Republican to win a seat on the important board of commissioners succumbed to pneumonia which developed from an attack of la grippe.

He had been bedfast since Saturday, when, weakened by his strenuous campaign, he became ill with a severe cold. Malone was too ill to vote on Tuesday. Yesterday friends kept telephoning the results to the Malone home and members of the family relayed them to him.

Malone's successor will be chosen by the 13 judges of the Common Pleas court. The law provides the man selected must have voted for Malone at Tuesday's election.

Mild and yet they Satisfy
—how do you do that?

Well, to start with, we take tobacco from our own Southland—mild ripe tobacco with lots of natural flavor but no harshness or bitterness.

THEN AS A SECOND STEP—

We blend this home-grown tobacco with spicy, aromatic Turkish tobaccos from across the seas. These Turkish tobaccos, you may know, have a flavor and fragrance entirely different from our own.

AS A THIRD STEP—

These tobaccos are cross-blended—welded together—the best way we've found to get a more pleasing flavor and a better taste in a cigarette.

TREATY POWERS MAY BE INVOKED TO PERFECT NRA

Blue Eagles Supporters Go Limit in Seeking Legal Justification

Washington, Nov. 8 — (AP)—The possibility of using the Federal government's treaty making power as the basis for future regulation of industry is being studied by a group of NRA lawyers.

They have been directed to explore every possible constitutional authority upon which new NRA legislation might be based if the government should again wish to experiment with something of that kind.

Canvassing the situation, the lawyers have become interested in the broad treaty making power granted the Federal government by the Constitution. That document states that treaties shall be the "supreme law of the land, x x x anything in the Constitution or laws of any state to the contrary notwithstanding."

Following through with that idea, the lawyers also are studying the conventions or treaties originating with the international labor organization at Geneva, to which the United States belongs.

Haven't Been Ratified Although most of these conventions were negotiated before the United States joined in 1934, and have not been ratified by this government, they deal with such subjects as hours of industrial employment, child labor, night work, minimum wages, and other conditions of employment.

What the lawyers are studying is whether, if the United States ratified such a convention, or a treaty with a single nation governing working hours in industry or some other condition of employment, the treaty would stand up as the "supreme law of the land."

Other constitutional provisions being exhaustively studied by the NRA lawyers involve the Federal government's jurisdiction over interstate commerce, taxes and appropriations, post offices, government contracts, tariff rates, and war emergencies.

The old NRA was based largely on the interstate commerce clause, but the other powers have been used in various regulatory laws in the past. The Guffey coal bill and the social security bill are based largely on the government's taxing and spending powers. Control of the post offices has been used to prevent fraud; several proposals are now pending in Congress for substitute NRA legislation based on jurisdiction over those who contract with the government.

PAW PAW NEWS

By Mrs. John Urey

Paw Paw — There was a large crowd at the opera Friday evening and it proved a great success. Miss Work as usual proved her ability of putting out such finished work. The following will describe the background: Miss Jimima Steel, a spinster, because of circumstances rather than choice has established a summer school for girls on the shore of Lollypop bay. Prof. Alvin Flint, bashful bachelor, has established a similar school for boys on the opposite side of the lake. Social relations between the camps are very restricted by Prof. Flint and his boys are accustomed to call on Miss Steel and her girls in a body. Dinah, the colored maid, declared she had seen a ghost. This suggests to Mary, Midgie and Molly, an idea for enlivening matters when the boys call again. The boys and their professor arrive, a ghost is seen by Miss Steel who becomes wildly alarmed, throws herself into the arms of Prof. Flint, causing him to realize that he loves her. The boys and girls stampede in all directions. It now develops that Dinah, who has contracted with Miss Steel to serve as maid for the entire season, has a lover with who she quarrelled. Her anger has cooled and she longs to return to him. To do this she determined to break up the school and her pretense of seeing a ghost was to prepare the way for her own masquerade in ghostly attire. It was she who was seen by Miss Steel, but Mary, masquerading at the same time does not know this nor does Dinah know of Mary's masquerading. In the second act the students have gathered together again and Mary and her friend pretend alarm with the rest. Prof. Flint sends Tom, Dick and Harry across the lake for blankets and prepares to guard Miss Steel's camp for the night. Left to themselves, Mary, Midgie and Molly decided to stage another ghost scare. Meanwhile Dinah plans a second masquerade while skulking among the trees wrapped in sheets. Mary and Dinah discover each other. Alarmed, they run, and entering camp opposite sides looking backwards, they collide and fall before Prof. Flint. As the professor is about to unmask them, a third shrouded figure appears and Prof. Flint rushes out in pursuit of the new ghost. In the excitement Mary and Dinah escape unrecognized and then while the horrified students stand aghast the ghost whom Prof. Flint pursued returns bearing the unconscious form of Prof. Flint. Miss Steel appears for the professor as she administers restoratives. Prof. Flint recovering consciousness sees the ghost still standing by and demands his capture. The ghost unmasks disclosing Dinah's Marcus who explains that he had hoped that if he frightened Dinah and then rescued her she might receive him more kindly. Prof. Flint and Miss Steel announce that they are marrying and combining their schools.

OREGON EDITOR SKEPTICAL RE- GARDING TREMOR

Speculates on Causes of Tembors Felt Here
Last Saturday

Ernie Landers of the Ogle County Republican is apparently skeptical of Dixon's earthquake last Saturday. In his column "From the Sidelines" he writes:

Dixon crowded poor old Rockford off the front page last Saturday and came forth with a story of earth tremors which shook the buildings and rattled the teeth of the sinners down that way, about 8 bells in the morning. Can't just tell whether this phenomenon was due to the Democratic landslide three years back, a volley of shells from the police battery, a blast at the cement plant or a repercussion from the ozone set in motion when several newspaper reporters gathered on the main corner to see what was doing. At any rate it was a good story, and possibly with some foundation too, as a large area in these United States was rocked by a bit of mother nature in her secret internal maneuverings for several days. Expect most any time now to see in the headline that Black Hawk Park in Rockford has erupted and scattered molten rock all the way from Chicken Charley's eating emporium clear to Tom Morrissey's mail route at Pecatonica.

OREGONIANS TO HAVE FETE WHEN NEW BANK OPENS

Amount Necessary for the Bank Announced to be Oversubscribed

(Telegraph Special Service)
Oregon, Nov. 8.—Oregon business men are going ahead with plans for a real, old-fashioned celebration when the new Ogle County National Bank is opened. All subscriptions for stock were paid in last week, and the amount necessary was oversubscribed. Some checks which came in this week for stock have been returned to the senders.

The celebration for which funds are now being raised, will take the form of an all day and night affair, not exactly all night, but up until midnight at least.

It is planned to offer premiums for exhibits of corn, grains, cakes, pies, vegetables, fruits, quilts, rugs, etc., the various exhibits to be displayed in store windows. There is to be a program in the forenoon, and other entertainment during the way, and at night in the Coliseum. For night as plans go now, there will be a free amateur vaudeville show, the various acts to be decided by a committee. No act will be permitted to run over six minutes and the field is open to every person over ten years of age. Music, singing, skits, dancing, etc., will be included in the bill.

To Distribute Gifts
If the present plans materialize there will be a distribution of a number of gifts, and a big free dance, with square dances and Virginia reels, as a windup. The whole affair will be free and everyone is invited to attend.

There may be a number of contests for the younger set, provided of course, that the weather looks O. K.

"Bob" Murdock is chief of staff of the program committee and is rustling around getting things lined up for the big day. Several hundred dollars will be spent in providing a real entertainment for the public in general.

Until some word is received from the Comptroller of the Currency at Washington it is impossible to set the exact date, but ample notice will be given so that all may have opportunity to come to Ogle celebration day and enjoy the programs.

CHILEAN ARMY JUMPERS LEAD EQUINE SHOW

New York, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Four midge army officers from Chile, riding diminutive but brilliant equine jumpers, threatened the military jumping supremacy of the United States and France today in the National Horse Show at Madison Square Garden.

The South Americans, a daring quartet of officers riding much in the manner of American jockeys, entered the final day of the high score competition for the trophy presented by their president, Arturo Alessandri, with a three point lead over the defending United States team from Ft. Riley, Kans.

The four other nations—France, the Irish Free State, Holland and Canada—ranked far behind in that order.

The battle of blue ribbons was just as intense among the civilian owners, with 21-year-old Frances Dodge, of Rochester, Mich., and Judy King, only a year older from Atlanta, Ga., holding the upper hand.

Miss Dodge, a half-sister of Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane, owner of the Brookmeade Racing Stable, piled up a total of six victories with her stable of harness and saddle horses. Miss King was not far behind, having taken four blues with her harness ponies, but she has nothing to match her Michigan rival's saddle horses.

KENTUCKY CITY VOTE CARRIES RE- PEAL ON TUESDAY

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 8.—(AP)—In winning election as governor of Kentucky by the greatest majority since reconstruction days, Lieut. Gov. A. B. "Happy" Chandler carried every congressional district except the ninth, a traditional Republican stronghold.

Chandler was piling up majorities today in 73 of the state's counties. In the ninth district, however, he was leading in only one county, Harlan, where he had an advantage of approximately 2,300 votes out of 20,000 tabulated.

Tabulations slightly more than three fourths complete, with returns from 3,196 of 4,219 precincts gave Chandler a majority of 77,357 over his Republican opponent, Judge King Swope of Lexington. The count was Chandler 425,034; Swope 347,677.

Rural Kentucky voted in favor of retaining the state's prohibition amendment, returns showed, but heavy voting for repeal in the large centers of population was burying the drys under a wet landslide.

SECOND ROUND BILLIARD PLAY BEGINS TODAY

Chicago, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Johnny Layton of Sedalia, Mo., seeking his 12th world's three cushion billiard championship, returned to action in the second round of title play today, meeting Otto Reisel, the Philadelphia veteran.

After Jay Bozeman, youthful bested player of Vallejo, Calif., smothered the veteran Tiff Deaton of Kansas City, last night, the first round was completed with the favorites surviving. Playing flashy billiards, Bozeman defeated the Missouri schoolmaster, 50 to 35 in 44 innings. Willie Hoppe, the one time boy wizard of the cue, joined the first round winners, by defeating Arthur Thurnblad of Chicago, 50 to 41, also in 44 innings.

Angie Kleckhefer of Chicago, ten times holder of the championship, and Welker Cochran of San Francisco, present holder of the 182 balloon championship, were the other first round winners. Kleckhefer, scoring 14 points in the final three innings, came from behind to overhaul Allen Hall, of St. Louis, 50 to 47 while Cochran conquered Otto Reisel, 50 to 42 in 49 innings.

Layton and Reisel meet in the early evening game, at 8 P. M., with Hall and Bozeman playing in the final. Kleckhefer and Thurnblad were paired off for the 1:30 P. M. contest with Cochran tackling the tiny Japanese threat, Kinrey Matsuyama at 3:30.

POGSKIN POINTERS COACH ROOSE
HOW TO PLAY HALFBACK

THE first qualification of a halfback coach looks for looseness at the hips. If a fellow is loose in that section of the body, he can be developed into a running back with the elusiveness of a Red Grange.

A halfback is not necessarily required to hit the line. One of the backs can be a bit heavier than the other for this duty, or the fullback can be relied on entirely for line bucks. But one of the halves must be shift, able to pick holes, with plenty of leg drive.

One of the most valuable steps a halfback can master is the side-step. In using this way of eluding tacklers, he holds the ball in the arm away from his opponent, shows him a leg, and then by means of the hip muscles, pulls the leg away by jumping to the side. The straight-arm is used with this step to make it more effective.

William E. Thompson, Pastor
We believe the spirit of the membership and friends of this church

The Sunday school classes and organizations of the church have had special meetings this week making preparations for every class and every department of the church to be in line Sunday morning in the Sunday school at 10 o'clock when the entire school will pulsate with an evangelistic spirit under the leadership of Roy Glessner superintendent of the school.

never knew his real name. AN I knew who they called him. "Wingy." "And you didn't even have a notion who he was, or why any of the others were?"

"Well, I might've had a hunch," said Jackers nervously. "What was that hunch?"

"I might've figured—" Jackers twisted his hands in agony of apprehension. "I—one man was big and red-haired. I figured he looked like Red Jackson—I mean, like the pictures I've seen in the papers, and—"

"AN right. We'll bet it was that. How about the man who was shot?"

"He was tall and light-haired, and tanned," said Doc Jackers, obviously relieved to be through with the painful business of identifying the nation's most badly-wanted criminal, who was notorious for the punishment he meted out to people as reckless as to give the authorities information about him.

"Toughest chap, looked like he might've been a cowboy or something. He'd been shot—"

He led into medical jargon to describe the wound; the gist of it was that although the man had been seriously weakened by loss of blood the wound had not been infected, no bones or vital organs had been hit, and recovery should be relatively speedy. He had bathed and dressed the wound, administered a shot of antitoxin serum, and then taken his departure.

A few more questions flitted Larry that there was no more useful information to be had from Doc Jackers. He tossed the little pill box in the man's lap with a contemptuous "Here you are, then," and withdrew to Matthews's office, while Matthews arranged for Jackers' transfer to jail.

"We're still about two jumps behind them," said Larry, as the five agents sped along the drive in their car, 10 minutes later. "Maybe we'll learn something, though."

THEY reached the Ranelagh apartments—a big, square building of yellow brick, looking like a thousand other city apartment houses all over the land. Larry rang for the janitor, they displayed their credentials, and the janitor informed them that suite 25 had been engaged by two men some months ago. The men had been out more than they had been in, he seemed; whole weeks would pass during which they never came near the place. Sunday evening, however, they had arrived and taken possession—a pair of men—

Somehow unwillingly, the janitor led them up to the apartment and opened the door with his pass key. The agents found themselves in a perfectly ordinary six-room furnished apartment, and they immediately set to work to search it from one end to the other.

Peters and LaRocca were busy with their fingerprint apparatus, collecting prints from the glasses and bottles. Gunderson was methodically going through drawers and cupboards and finding nothing worth a second glance. Matthews was busy in the kitchen. Larry stood in the living room, looking slowly about him for some clue, however slight, that would shed some light on the sudden

"I called a cab and hurried out. I got there in about half an hour and buzzed the buzzer and went right up. There were four men there. One of them had been shot through the shoulder. He—"

"Just a minute. Who were the men?"

"I didn't recognize any of them. I'd never—"

"Who were the men?"

"I'm telling you—"

"Come off it," said Larry roughly. He got up and slipped the box back into his pocket. "If you're not going to come clean—"

"So help me," said Jackers desperately. "I don't know who they were. I know this one guy—that is, I'd seen him before—but I

DIXON STATE HOSPITAL

The Sunday afternoon service at 3:15 P. M. for the staff patients and attendants will be conducted by the Rev. Howard P. Buxton of the Methodist Episcopal church.

SUGAR GROVE CHURCH

Sunday: Bible school at 1:30 A. M. Keith Swartz, superintendent. The preaching service at 2:30 P. M. will be conducted by the Rev. Lloyd W. Walter of St. Paul's Lutheran church.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

A fine audience greeted the evangelist last night. The Rev. Melma sang a beautiful solo, entitled "Have You Forgotten God?" The Rev. Fox spoke on the things that accompany salvation, using as his text Hebrews 6:9. "We are persuaded better things of you, the things that accompany salvation." He said in part: "We must get ourselves in the way of blessings like Eleazer, I being in the way the Lord led me." Then the church will be ready for soul winning.

These people to whom the text was addressed were enlightened, they lived in the environment of God, they were close to the holy things but it was only a profession they did not live up to. Their religion was a formality. What an awakening when they reached eternity, with all their religious activities, with all their ecclesiastical formalism, with all their self-righteousness they would find themselves lost. ## DOPE BUCKET STIRRED FOR WEEKLY TILTS

Gophers versus Iowa, Irish - Wildcats Teams Clash

BY HERBERT BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
New York, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Without benefit of counsel, this department ventures the following comment, valuable or otherwise, on this week's football schedule:
Princeton-Harvard: Without forgetting Princeton's defeat by Yale a year ago, the Tigers should win this one about as they please. Harvard has developed a sound defense but unless all the signs are pointing in the wrong direction, the Crimson has neither the material nor the offense to cope with the mighty Tigers, undefeated and untied.
Minnesota-Iowa: The choice must be Minnesota, but, given a dry field, the Hawkeyes will be dangerous as long as Oze Simmons is in the lineup.
California-Washington: Some far western critics call Washington the best team on the coast, but California, unbeaten, has done everything asked of it so far and gets the nod here.
Upset Lurks Here.
Notre Dame-Northwestern: All the material for the well-known upset is here. Northwestern is improving with every game and earned its first major victory at Illinois expense last week. Notre Dame, bereft of Andy Pilney, will need to fight against a serious let-down after the sensational triumph over Ohio State. All of which still adds up to Notre Dame in this corner.
Fordham-St. Mary's: The invading Gaels get this doubtful vote.
Pitt-Army: Pitt, but the Panthers' running attack must function better than it did against Fordham.
Louisiana State-Mississippi: A critical Southeastern conference game in which L. S. U. seems to rate the slightest kind of an edge.
Penn-Navy: The No. 1 mystery of the campaign is Penn and its failure to win with what looks like all the winning cards. Despite their poor record, this vote goes to the Quakers in the belief they can come back to the same peak they hit against Columbia.
Southern California-Stanford:

Learning Shift

Einmetsburg, Ia., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Knute Rockne would have liked this:
Two youthful east side football teams piled up at the line of scrimmage. When the pile was unscrambled:
Donald Weir 14, had a broken leg.
Billy Kushner, 11, had a broken foot.
Robert Brereton, 15, has a sprained ankle.
But at a doctor's office one of the trio exclaimed:
"We'll learn that Notre Dame shift yet!"

A Tough Game

Georgia Tech-Auburn: One of the South's toughest games with Auburn getting the call, faintly.
Chicago-Ohio State: Chicago probably will be the innocent bystander as the Buckeyes seek to get even for last week's reverse.
Wisconsin-Purdue: Purdue has been unfortunate this season, but the Boilermakers should locate enough luck to take this one.
Illinois-Michigan: Illinois hasn't clicked since the second week in October. The team with the best passer should decide this one, and his name, in this corner at least, seems to be Bill Renner. Michigan, doubtfully.
Michigan State-Marquette: Two high-scoring arrays which rank with the country's best. Strictly on the toss of a coin, Marquette.
Tulane-Georgia: Georgia.
Kentucky-Florida: Kentucky.
Tennessee-Mississippi: Tennessee in a close one.
Alabama-Clemson: Alabama handily.
Columbia Gets Call.
Yale-Brown: All Blue, especially Brown.
Dartmouth-William & Mary: The Southerners should get nothing but the ride out of this.
Maryland-Indiana: Indiana.
Nebraska-Kansas: Kansas looks good, but this corner doubts the Jayhawkers can whip Nebraska at Lincoln. The Cornhuskers get the nod.
Iowa State-Kansas State: Kansas State.
Rice-Arkansas: Rice.
Bloodhounds were known as stagehounds until about a century ago. They owe their name to the fact that they are out for blood.
Two languages, Saxon and Norman French, were spoken in England for many years after the Norman conquest.
Crayfish are not fish, despite the fact that they live in water and breathe through gills.

THREE BIG TEN TEAMS DEFEND THEIR PLACES

Apparently Little Chance For An Upset Game

Chicago, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The big three of the Big Ten gridiron title struggle, Minnesota, Ohio State and Michigan, charge out tomorrow to defend their positions, and there is nothing in the evidence to indicate they shouldn't succeed.
The Gophers, who haven't dropped a decision since the final game of the 1932 season when Michigan won, 3 to 0, on Harry Newman's field goal, apparently face the toughest job of the trio in meeting Iowa at Iowa City. The Hawkeyes were held to a 6-6 tie by Indiana last week, but the field was muddy, and with a dry track, Oze Simmons, Dick Crayne and the rest of the Iowa backs may be able to at least cause Minnesota some inconvenience.
Minnesota, which has gathered momentum with each game this season, has earned the right to be called the favorite, and anything but a Gopher victory would be an upset. Minnesota's long defeatless span covers 21 games, including four ties in 1933.
Bucks Look Ugly
Ohio State, its dream of national championship honors shattered in a few mad minutes by Notre Dame last week, is expected to bounce back at the expense of Chicago's brave little band. On form, the Buckeyes figure up as definitely superior, unless Coach Francis Schmidt's aggregation has failed to recover from last week's shock.
Michigan, improving with every Saturday, appears to have too much of almost everything for Illinois. With Bill Renner and John Smithers passing, and Chris Everhardus and Stark Ritchie running with the ball, the Wolverines have their best balanced offense since 1933. They also will outweigh the Illini by a substantial margin. Illinois, good some Saturdays and not so good on others, hopes to have one of its better days, and is accorded a chance of producing an upset.
Sharing attention with the Minnesota-Iowa battle, Northwestern and Notre Dame will have it out again at South Bend. The Irish, of course, will be favored, but a let-down as the result of last week's heroic work at Ohio State might help the Wildcats to their first victory over Notre Dame since 1901.
Purdue and Wisconsin, neither involved in the championship battle, tangle at Madison, while Indiana engages in a little intersectional business at Maryland.

REDMEN HOSTS TO JOLIET IN SUNDAY FRAY

Independent Goal Still Remains Uncrossed by Rivals

The Joliet Independents will be the Sunday afternoon opposition of the Dixon Redmen on the high school field, the game beginning at 2:30 P. M.
Goal Still Uncrossed
Dixon's goal line has not been crossed in three games played of which the locals have won two and tied one. The Reds conquered Rockford's All-Stars 34 to 0 in the opener, October 20, then followed up with an easy 27 to 0 triumph over Janesville, Wis. Playing in a sea of mud and water in a driving rain last Sunday the Redmen were held to a scoreless tie by the Freeport Pros. Twice the locals threatened to score, once in the second frame and once in the third quarter, but each time Freeport held on to the three yard line.
One of the highlights of the Independents' season will be a game with Harvey, Ill., according to present arrangements in the near future. Harvey is reputedly one of the strongest teams in this sector and boasts a 200 pound line which is not only beefy but one of the

Princeton Loses Back Who Scored On Dixon Eleven

Holding an advantage of 127 points to Geneseo's 27, in football warfare which began in 1926 Princeton's Tigers will meet their old rivals Armistice Day in the ninth clash between the two schools and the final game of 1935 for both teams.
In the Geneseo game many of Princeton's players will be seen in action for the last time. These include Roy Campbell, acting captain, center and end, John Bouxsein and Jennings, ends, Max Morel, tackle and guard, Bob Harris, tackle, Jack Nickelson, halfback, Harlow Brown, linesman and backfield, "Shorty" Pierson, backfield. Nickelson was the star who intercepted Ankeny's pass in the Dixon game and ran 85 yards for a touchdown giving his team a 7-7 tie.
Coach Eric Strom when making up his 1936 squad will find it a hard task to replace those seniors but he has several regulars who will be back to make it tough for N. C. I. conference opponents. They are Simpson, Neil Nelson, Kasbeer, Slut, P. Bouxsein, and several promising reserves.

PATRONS AIDING U. AUTHORITIES CURB DRINKING

Less Imbibing at Big Games This Season, Claim

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 8.—Greatly encouraged by the cooperation of patrons at the Iowa game the last in the stadium, University of Illinois authorities plan to continue their crusade against drinking at the Michigan game this week.
At the Iowa game the response of the public to the appeal of Director George Hoff to save the game of football from the danger to its welfare by drinking was immediate. The stadium doors and stands were manned by a large force to control the situation but there was not much for them to do.
It was not necessary to eject one person from the stadium.
It was necessary to refuse admission to three persons only.
It was necessary to caution only seven persons.
Despite this admirable showing precautions will not be relaxed and a large force will be on the job to protect the great majority of patrons from the few who might be inclined to be disorderly. Notices that a Champaign city ordinance prohibits drinking in the stadium will be prominently displayed. Patrons will be asked to notify ushers or police of objectionable conduct by others in the stands.
New museums have been built at the rate of one every 16 days, during the last 10 years in this country.
Cats are kept on fox farms to be used as foster mothers to young foxes whose mothers have deserted them.
Abror vitae hedge should be trimmed soon after it begins growing in the spring.

UZCUDUN NEVER KNOCKED DOWN IN RING BOUTS

Detroit, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Paulino Uzcudun, the hard rock from Spain, has never been knocked off his feet in 10 long years of fighting, but take it from young Joe Louis "there's always a first time for everything."
Joe believes Paulino's "first time" will come the night of Dec. 13, in New York City. On that evening Joe, whose dynamite laden rights and lefts smashed the hopes of two former world champions, Primo Carnera and Max Baer, will start from his corner determined to take an early chip out of the rugged "Basque Woodchopper."
Louis started training today, but it didn't mean much. The reason is the 21-year-old Negro never is far out of condition. He's been going road work even while exhibiting, and today added a little shadow boxing and sparring to his routine. It indicated, however, that Joe takes every coming opponent as seriously as the one he just finished pulverizing.
